SESTRI LEVANTE

A peninsula, between the Baia delle Favole (Bay of Fables) and the Baia del Silenzio (Bay of Silence): these are magic names for those who love the sea.
Yes, because at Sestri Levante there are two seas: the lively, animated sea of the Baia delle Favole, and the quiet, romantic sea of the Baia del Silenzio.
Together these two worlds account for the seductive power of a fishing village which seems to emerge almost naturally from the sea and which has become a welcoming and sophisticated tourist centre, with an additional touch of personality.
The seduction of Sestri is the result of two elements: rich and complex history and simple and enchanting nature.
Only a place like this can think of a prize for children literature, the famous Christian Andersen Prize which has become an international important event for children and literature.
